

Hometalk
November 2, 2015

Surround Yourself With Textiles That Make You Feel at Home

Pearson Brown
Blogger Los Angeles, CA
Follow

NEW!

The texture and softness of your home furnishings says a lot about you. Sophistication in your home textiles does not mean these items should be untouchable.

The wrap of luxury

Bath towels are a basic everyday home item, but the types of fiber, construction and feel are myriad. MicroCotton is one of the latest innovations in bath towels, with a unique structure of the yarn that offers a suede-like texture that gets softer with washing. MicroCotton towels are made from 100% plush long-staple cotton and a patented spinning process so the towels feel fluffy and extra-soft while also being absorbent and drying easily. Because of the lighter-weight textiles, large MicroCotton towels are lighter than others their size. The cotton weave is also durable and long-lasting and holds colors that do not fade after multiple washings. MicroCotton towels are made by many brands, including Wamsutta Perfect Soft MicroCotton Bath Towels ($14.99 at Bed, Bath and Beyond), Noble Excellence MicroCotton Bath Towels ($34.00 at Dillard's) and Hotel Collection Bath Towels MicroCotton Collection ($31.00 at Macy's).